SUBJECT: Effect of Constitutional Amendment Barring Convicted Felons from Running for or Holding Elective Office in Wisconsin

In November 1996, the electors of the StateVosconsin ratified a constitutional amendment which bars any person, who has been convicted felony for which they have not been pardoned, or who has been convicted of a missaterior involving a violation of public trust for which they have not been pardone from holding a state or locaffice. As a result of the adoption of this constitutional amendment, which took effect on November 5, 1996, local election officials will have to address a numbequestions relating toonvicted felons who seek to run for office or who are elected to office.

The constitutional amendment deswith two different types of rimes. The first involves felony convictions. Any person convicted of a feely in any federal or state court in the United States is barred from running for state or loofface in Wisconsin, unless that person has been pardoned.

The second involves misdemeanor convictions <code>ivingla</code> violation of public trust. The term, "misdemeanor involving a violation of public <code>ttu</code>'shas not been defined by state law. Filing officers do not have to worry about individuals nvicted of that category of crime until the term has been defined. At the present time, <code>time</code> no such thing as a misdemeanor involving a violation of public trust.

The State Elections Board staff has revised the laration of Candidacy form (EB-162) to reflect this constitutional change. Any person is the laration of candidate for state or local office must file a Declaration of Candiacy. That declaration contains a sworn statement that the person has not been convicted of any felon which they have not been pardoned, or any misdemeanor involving a violation public trust for which they have not been pardoned. Any person who falsely signs this statement could devicted of a violation of S. 12.13(3)(a), (am), Wis. Stats. If a person seeking to be a candidate advises you that they have been convicted of a felony, your best approach is twis them that they cannot be a candidate and discourage them from filing allot access documents, including nomination papers, a Declaration of Candidacy and capaign Registration Statement.
